DETAILED ACTION

The Edan System at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office listed two different sets of claims with the date of October 3, 2003. The examiner of record is not sure which set of claims to examine. Accordingly, all the claims of record have been included in the rejections below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Vaillancourt et al. The cited patent discloses an infusion needle having a passageway and at least one needle cannula having a distal tip, at least one cannula, while in an unconstrained configuration having at least one preformed bend being constrainable to a second configuration whereby upon release of external constraint, the substantially returns to the unconstrained configuration.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stevens in view of Vaillancourt et al., in view of Stevens, and in further view of Bendel et al., and Amplatz et al., and finally, in further view of Faxon et al., and Hofling.

The Vaillancourt et al., patent discloses an infusion needle having a passageway and at least one needle cannula having a distal tip, at least one cannula, while in an unconstrained configuration having at least one preformed bend being constrainable to a second configuration whereby upon release of external constraint, the substantially returns to the unconstrained configuration. This patent does not disclose the use of a restraining cannula that surrounds the outer surface of the needle, the use of martensitic and austenitic structures, and the option of using of multiple infusion needle to infuse the medication. However, these enhancements are conventional in the art as evidenced by the teachings of Bendel et al., and Amplatz et al., and Faxon et al., and Hofling.

The Bendel et al., and Amplatz et al., patents demonstrate the conventionality of using martensitic and austenitic structures. Furthermore, the teachings of Faxon et al., and Hofling demonstrate that designing medical infusion devices with multiple needles is well known in the art.

Based on the above observations, for a person of ordinary skill in the art, modifying Vaillancourt et al., with martensitic and austenitic structures and with the capability of deploying multiple needles, would have been considered obvious in view of the conventionality of these well known enhancements.
